As the earth swung this golden hum seemed to wash over me as the bells ringed i heard you sing and it called me out to sea

you said how did you know that fine living makes you slow how did you know i was the one and how could you see impossibility
as far as you know
i am your sun

see i woke up frail and perfect see i woke up tired and warm as the old man stands to judge us all i believe i am reborn

you said how could we know fine living makes you slow how could i know you were the one i said how could you see impossibility as far as i know i am your sun

i swore
forever more
i would stand up
bright and clear
as we rise above our doubts and fears
singing out so all may hear