

Who You Are

Revive

Does it take more than you've got to open your eyes and draw the courage just to live one more lonely day stuck inside your broken body?

And, as you draw that heavy breath, is it hard to hear the fuss of the teacher passing by, followed by everyone?

They say this man brings hope.

And, as your head slumps to your chest, you sigh, "There's no hope for me,"

He kneels right down by your side.

"Oh, I...I will not forget about you, 'cause you are mine,

Oh, I...I will never let you drown inside your tears, inside your tears,

'Cause I know who you are."

Is it hard to leave the glow of the TV's comfort light to face the real world's sickening twists all by yourself?

They say that God is there for you.

But you fall to your knees and scream, "Where are you now? I've never felt so alone."

"Oh, I...I will not forget about you, 'cause you are mine,

Oh, I...I will never let you drown inside your tears, inside your tears,

'Cause I know who you are."

"Don't cry, don't cry - I'm the same today as I was back then,

Don't fear, don't fear, 'cause I still care,

I still care, I still care.

"Oh, I...I will not forget about you, 'cause you are mine,

Oh, I...I will never let you drown inside your tears, inside your tears,

'Cause I know who you are."