

My life's in pandemonium at the moment
Been waiting for the closer
For one thing to be over
Just to move on and be closer
To what I can remember
As the life I once was living
Fill your own cup up and sip it

Oh, the optimisms killing
Like at school just tryna to fit in
You try your best but nothing works
Does it ever move forwards? No
What's the point? I think they're taking their time
In the process wasting mine

I was in my prime
What does it really mean to be in your prime?
When you're changing all the time
I've been learning how to drive
Julian's beside me losing his patience
Just as I'm losing my mind

But I stepped out of the way that I was feeling
I dreamt of all my freedom
Jumped in my Carrera
Then I realised I was dreaming
Failed my test for speeding
On the same day that I got the news
And I could not believe it
On the phone they told me it was finally over
6:30 in the evening
Overwhelmed with closure
A true relief, a long embrace
Long awaited moment
And I felt so much
