

Suddenly

Richard Marx

It only took a moment A solitary glance And i could hear the voice of rapture call I've loved you from a distance Afraid to take a chance And now it seems i can't help but to fall Imagine my surprise To open up my eyes And find that you were looking back

And suddenly I can not remember who i used to be And like the rain this yearning washes over me And all the pain i knew before is gone And suddenly I'm no longer drifting on an empty sea And now i know that i believe in destiny And mine is waiting right here in your arms

I longed to awake besides you And bathe in love's abyss Washing all that comes before away And in this frozen moment as I receive your kiss There will not be words enough to say I wanna make you melt, Touch you like noone else And do it all again a thousand times

And suddenly I can not remember who i used to be And like the rain this yearning washes over me And all the pain i knew before is gone And suddenly I'm no longer drifting on an empty sea And now i know that i believe in destiny And mine is waiting right here in your arms

I wanna make you melt, touch you like noone else And do it all again a thousand times

And suddenly I can not remember who i used to be And like the rain this yearning washes over me And all the pain i knew before is gone And suddenly I'm no longer drifting on an empty sea And now i know that i believe in destiny And mine is waiting right here baby in your arms