

Irreplaceable

Rick Springfield

God it took my breath away
Nothing I could say would've made you stay
Life moved on anyway as my wings were shot away
I knew you'd find the peace you earned
And the true release you yearned for
You drew your masterpiece and I learned
How beautiful you are

You're Irreplaceable to me
Inerasable and I see
We are breakable when we fall
You're Irreplaceable in my soul
The sun will rise and morning breaks
As the world awakes without you

Your spirit shines tonight
Blazing like a neon light
Love gives me second sight
I see your signs they're clear and bright
I'll find you in the great unknown
Where angels celebrate you home
And standing at the gate, alone
I'll be reaching for your hand

You're Irreplaceable to me
Inerasable and I see
We are breakable when we fall
You're Irreplaceable in my soul

Yeah I miss you most of these days
At moon-rising, sun-downing
But the pain comes in these waves
And tonight I'm drowning

You're Irreplaceable to me
Inerasable and I see
We are breakable when we fall
You're Irreplaceable in my soul
The sun will rise and morning breaks
As the world awakes without you
Without you
