

You Are Something Else

Ricky Skaggs

I've been moved to tears,
I've been stilled by what I saw.
And down through the years,
I think I've pretty much seen it all.

Seven seas and heavenly symphonies;
Rows of red roses in bloom;
The Eiffel Tower, Van Gogh's sunflowers;
I've seen a man on the moon.

And I stood there amazed by the beauty and wonder,
Took it all in and I said, 'that was something, 'but,
You are something else.

Of everything I've seen,
You're still the fairest one.
Cause baby everything, pales in comparison.

Mountain summits, desert sunsets;
Fireflies that dance on the night;
Weeping willows, perfect rainbows;
I've seen the great Northern Lights.

And I stood there amazed by the beauty and wonder,
Took it all in and I said, 'that was something, 'but,
You are something else.

You're something else; you're something more.
You're something that's never been before.

The Eiffel Tower, Van Gogh's Sunflowers,
I've seen a man on the moon.

And I stood there amazed by the beauty and wonder,
Took it all in and I said, 'that was something, 'but,
You are something else,
You are something else,
You are something else,
You are something else.
