

When The Wheels Turn

Rico Blanco

I'm waiting in the corner of the sun
Collapsin' in the weight of what we've done
Outside I see the silence of your dreams
Inside a little shadow of what seems to have been

And there's no way of knowing
When all these heartlights will return
And there's no way were fallin'
When the wheels turn

You take a sip from their cup of advice
Your enervated heart scattered the dice
Now all we built just feels like a mistake
The love we had before has turned to hate, to hate

And there's no way of knowing
When all these heartlights will return
And there's no way were fallin'
When the wheels turn

And in the distant silence
No pain, no sorrow will forgive
And I am left to wonder, "have I wronged you?"
Until the summer wakes up
I will be laughing through my pain
There'll be no words of wisdom
When the wheels turn
When the wheels turn
When the wheels turn
