

Jesus Cries

Riley Clemmons

It's no secret that life gets a little heavy sometimes
Like it's too much for one heart to take
Your smile's wearing thin
Just tryna hold it all in
But it feels like the dam's gonna break

You are not alone facing that flood behind your eyes
Heaven already knows every tear that you cry

So let 'em fall like the rain
Let 'em roll down your face
Let 'em run like a river
That carries your pain
To the Savior with scars
Right there, holding your heart
When you weep, He's there weeping with you
Jesus cries too

There's no answer sometimes
For the hurt that's inside
When the healing feels so far away
But in the ache of your soul
There's a love that comes close
And catches your tears when they're all you can pray

Let 'em fall like the rain
Let 'em roll down your face
Let 'em run like a river
That carries your pain
To the Savior with scars
Right there, holding your heart
When you weep, He's there weeping with you
Jesus cries too
Jesus cries too

At the edge of the grave
In the valley of pain
When the sadness won't shake
It's true
Jesus cries too
When the suffering is long
When you can't see the dawn
He feels all the sorrow with you
Jesus cries too
Jesus cries too
Yeah, yeah

Let 'em fall like the rain
Let 'em roll down your face
Let 'em run like a river
That carries your pain
Right there, holding your heart
When you weep, He's there weeping with you
He's never been closer, it's true
Jesus cries too
