

Should've Known

Ringside

And the fall
Rested on the shoulders
Announced the end of the holiday
Two moons
Suspended in the sky
By the rockets and the holiday planes
On a man standing on a hill
Trying to make sense of change

Or fate, that let him go
Driftin' away, hey, hey, hey

Ohhh, I shoud've known
Babe, but I didn't
Too far I've fallen
I admit it
I let myself go
Let myself go

Came back inside
It's getting colder every night
Found the sweater on the floor
Collapsed against the door
And I prayed you would feel me
Somehow see me more clearly
Could we do the math
Forgivin' what you can, understand
Don't let me drift away, hey, hey, hey

Ohhh, I shoud've known
Babe, but I didn't
Too far I've fallen
I admit it
I let myself go
Let myself go

I traveled as I jumped
But the rats and the wild I was in it
When the arms and the legs went numb
My head would not let me forget it
But tonight I'm meeting my death

Ohhhhh, ohhhh
Ohhhhh, ohhhh
Ohhhhh, ohhhh
Ohhhhh, ohhhh ohhhh ayyy

Ohhh, I shoud've known
Babe, but I didn't
Too far I've fallen
I admit it
I let myself go

Ohhh, I shoud've known
Babe, but I didn't
Too far I've fallen
I admit it

I let myself go
Let myself go

Babe but I didn't
I admit it
