

Afterglow

Rising Insane

I've been sinking down the ocean floor
I found something I have lost before
In a double phased world down below
We're living in the afterglow

The weight of the past hits deep, it's critical
In a place called home, it's so cynical
Does it happen again, I thought I'm through it all
But it goes on and on again

When the weight pulls on me
And the colors fade to grey
This is not the life we're meant to live

It bursts my heart
Tears my soul apart
The void is burning me again
I hear the echoes calling, echoes calling home
All I know
Wherever I will go
I will keep falling for the afterglow

The world that I knew, it has been torn apart
Give me a break, give me another shot
Every tear, every scar, every smile
Has led to nothing
(Led to nothing...)

If it leads to nothing
Why should I feel something

Walking on the surface
Of something I don't know
This is how it feels
Living in the afterglow

When the weight pulls on me
And the colors fade to grey
This is not the life we're meant to live

It bursts my heart
Tears my soul apart
This void is burning me again
I hear the echoes calling echoes calling home
All I know
Wherever I will go
I will keep falling for the afterglow

I will keep falling

I've been sinking down the ocean floor
Where I found something I have lost before
In a double phased world down below
We're living in the afterglow

Burst my heart
It tears my soul apart

We'll always live in the afterglow