

Imprisoned

Rising Insane

When you walk on empty streets
When you're swimming through a sea of tears
Could you start believing
When the panic rises up
And you know it's far too much
What is keeping you to run

Cause there is more to live
There's more to take and you got more to give
It feels difficult but if you really try
You can rise and shine

When the ground begins to shake
And the fire bursts your dreams
And the pressure is too much to take
What is holding you to stay

What is holding you to...

When their eyes are on your steps
And you don't know how to act
And why you're acting at all

You know you're different
You haven't always been what they want
But when it's over
You're starting to be someone you love
Hands up to the sky
Wave the past goodbye
I'll be there if you need me

When the ground begins to shake
And the fire bursts your dreams
And the pressure is too much to take
What is holding you to stay

It's not too late
I'll bear the weight
Spread your wings and fly away
You ain't just someone, you are the change
You are the change

Can't hold on, can't hold on to the madness
Can't move on, moving right through the darkness
Can't hold on, can't hold on to the madness
Can't move on, moving right through the darkness
Can't hold on, can't hold on to the madness
Can't move on, moving right through the darkness