Mirrors

Rival Sons

Take my eyes and wash it for good
Help them to see the things that they should Take my feet no longer they stray
From where I belong and where you should stay

And I say a prayer for the devil I know
Just so I can let him go

I lost my sight so slowly
I didn't know that I was going blind

Smashing the mirror
To see, to see beyond the eye
To see, to see beyond the eye
To see, to see beyond

Take my tongue and wash it so well
Dip it in truth for the lies it can tell
Take my hands let them be untied
Teach them to build and to provide

And I say a prayer for the devil I know
Just so I can let him go

I lost my sight so slowly
I didn't know that I was going blind

Smashing the mirror
To see, to see beyond the eye
To see, to see beyond the eye
To see, to see beyond

Smashing the mirror
To see, to see beyond the eye
Smashing the mirror
To see, to see beyond the eye
To see, to see beyond the eye
To see, to see beyond the eye
To see, to see beyond
