

Reflection

Rivals

Right now, feels like I am under pressure
If they shake the cracks, then I might fall right through
'Cause right now all I feel is misdirection
Reflecting things that I will never do

I've been blinded by the people that surround me
Give me something, someone, give me something

The last piece of my heart
I have saved for myself
When I go through hell, I let my feelings go
I want the world to know
I'm trapped in my own paranoia
I'm stuck here all alone

(The last piece of my heart)

Right now, feels like I am still defensive
With people only thinking of themselves
'Cause I feel like I have lost my senses
I'm blindly drifting through these crowds like someone else

I've been blinded by the people that surround me
Give me something, someone, give me something

The last piece of my heart
I have saved for myself
When I go through hell, I let my feelings go
I want the world to know
I'm trapped in my own paranoia
I'm stuck here all alone

The last piece of my heart
I have saved for myself
When I go through hell, I let my feelings go
I want the world to know
I'm stuck here all alone

The last piece of my heart
I have saved for myself
When I go through hell, I let my feelings go
I want the world to know
I'm trapped in my own paranoia
I'm stuck here all alone