ROAM

So put me in my place
Show me all the things I waste
And tell me everything I could have been
According to your thinking
A wasted a shell with some potential
A fractured mind caught too deep into Everything .
And the road's still paved with this,
The remains of people,
Who tried their best,
And still didn't fit.
Cause however bright you burn,
Some light gets lost in the glow.
Like the stars faded black,
Lost from the streetlight below.
Only the time will tell,
If all that's on the line will,
Fall into place as well,
As it has in my mind but
I've got to face my fears
I'm gonna take these years
And turn them into something real
I feel like everyone my age,
Is twice as far into their lives.
With better jobs and more insights
A better road, less to rewrite.
And the road's still paved with this,
The remains of people,
Who tried their best,
And still didn't fit.
I feel like everyone my age,
Is twice as far into their lives.
With better jobs and more insights
A better road, less to rewrite.
