

I'll wait for London,
And the sunrise,
For everything to be ok in your eyes,
This is not goodbye,
This is just goodnight.

I came to finish what I started here
I try to speak but the words just disappear.
Man up and tell me straight what's going on.
It's been this way for years and I don't want to move on.

Our days are numbered we know that
Naivety took us so far
We knew it would end eventually
I can't believe we even got this far got this far got this far...

A friend to me once said,
If nothing dies and nothing ends
Then this place will be filled with apathy and it's worse than when
Procrastination takes a hold of me
Cause it's not that I've been lying I just forgot to do the things I said I'd do.

Our days are numbered we know that
Naivety took us so far
We knew it would end eventually
I can't believe we even got this far

Got this far
got this far
got this far...

I'll never take you back
And nothing that we had
Could ever be part of these plans
And now were counting the days
Just counting the days
Till its over.

Our days are numbered we know that
Naivety took us so far
We knew it would end eventually
I can't believe we even got this far