

Here Comes the Day

Rob Baird

The sun will rise and the sun will set
Put down my money I'll place my bets
Don't tell me this is good as it gets
'Cause there's some things that I've never had

Like a fire burnin' from the inside out
You had your questions and I had my doubt
Sparks were flyin' in the dead of the night
But the flames burned out like the stars in the sky

'Cause we could've had love
But it just wasn't good enough
To hell with this peace and the solitude
Here comes the day that I don't love you
Here comes the day

I heard the warnings like a siren wails
I just couldn't, help myself
Here you are standing right next to me
So close now but you can barely see

'Cause we could've had love
But it just wasn't good enough
To hell with this peace and the solitude
Here comes the day that I don't love you

'Cause you burnt that bridge and you walked away
Here, comes the day
That the tears fall right off your cheeks
'Cause you did to you what you done to me

'Cause we could've had love
But it just wasn't good enough
To hell with this peace and the solitude
Here comes the day that I don't love you

Could've had love
But it just wasn't good enough
To hell with this peace and the solitude
Here comes the day that I don't love you
