

Back To The Start

Rob Thomas

I remember the day that you blew me away
When you came to my house in your car
And the way that you smiled with the faith of a child
Man, I loved you with all of my heart

And then life starts turning sideways
And the whole thing falls apart
But if you feel like second chances
When we come to the end, we can always go back to the start
Back to the start

There were so many times that I fumbled the lines
When I came to the end of the scene
And I know what to say 'cause it's there on the page
But you already know what I mean

And we try to write the ending
That finds me where you are
And we ride off in the sunset
When it comes to the end, we can always go back to the start

Take all you can handle
Take half what you need
How can we become
The way we used to be?

Let's ride on down the highway
Let's light up in the dark
Till it feels just like it should be
When we come to the end, we can always go back to the start

When we come to the end, we can always go back to the start

Yeah, back where it starts
Oh, back to your heart
