

Snowblind

Rob Thomas

I think were snowblind
We've had a hard time
And we cant see where we are
Spending our whole lives
Walking the same lines
And it doesnt seem to stop

This is our life
Its all that we get
The days are all numbered
And the nights are all spent
We're losing our focus
It's starting to drag
Were running in circles
And we start to feel bad

But it dont mean that this aint right
We just both need a little more time

You stick in my throat
You melt in my hands
You cause me to wonder
As much as I can
I feel it all over
It's starting to lag
Were spinning our wheels so much
That its hard to turn back

But when the night falls down on this place
I will be the one to hold you when the tears fall down your face
