

Beginning of the End

Robert DeLong

Guess I should've seen the signs, but I didn't
My eyes were opened
Heart was blind, no vision
Of whats bubbling under the surface
What did I do to deserve this?
How can we cross this great divide
You gotta tell me

Is this a wasteland?
Are you a goner?
How many days 'til we're underwater?
I wanna think we'll be alright, alright

Or are we too far gone
'Cause you're looking at me now likes it's out of my hands
Hold on
There must be something I can do
Did I miss the beginning of the end? (the end, the end, the end, the end, the end, the end)
Where did we go wrong?
Or are we too far gone? (gone, gone, gone)

Foreign writing on the wall
Can't read it, but I think it says I should've called
And I didn't
Strange how one thing can lead to another
Until it's too late to recover
Setting ourselves up to fall
I know it

It makes me wonder
Why do we bother
How many days 'til we're underwater
I wanna think we'll be alright, alright

Or are we too far gone
'Cause you're looking at me now likes it's out of my hands
Hold on
There must be something I can do
Did I miss the beginning of the end? (the end, the end, the end, the end, the end, the end)
Where did we go wrong?
Or are we too far gone? (gone, gone, gone)

Are we too far gone?
'Cause you're looking at me now like it's out of my hands
Hold on
There must be something left to lose

Are we too far gone?
'Cause if this is where we chose I wanna know
Where did we go wrong?
There must be something I can do
Did I miss the beginning of the end? (the end, the end, the end, the end, the end, the end)
Where did we go wrong? (where did we go wrong)
Or are we too far gone? (gone, gone, gone)
