Slow Dancer

Robert Plant

Slow, slow dancer, ooh, no hands for you New moves to see Oh, fast talker in dark, for you New words to hear

Oh, sly glances I half chance for you The eye that sees

And the sun slips from the day And the coolness brings relief There's no torment 'neath the stars In the stillness of the night

When the swirling has to cease Behind the safety of the veil Ooh, yeah

Now, in high places, darkened faces So indifferent, in days to be

Oh, lost race, no loser, only winners Return to seeb New order can't be altered when the eyes Refuse to see

And the sun slips the day
And the coolness brings relief
There's no torment 'neath the stars
In the stillness of the night

When the swirling has to cease Behind the safety of the veil

Ah, ah, ah

Now, now, now, now Soft, soft spoken, never could be broken, awaiting The dawn light with me Slow burning, school of learning, Builds down on me

Hearts leaping, hopes been reaching To the heights, to the heights These signs to see

Oh, baby
I should say now, baby, baby, baby
In the darkness
Oh, Lord, so good
Oh, Lord, so fine

In the darkness, in the darkness
Yes, yes, yes
(Ah, ah, ah, ah)
Don't you wanna go?
(Ah, ah, ah, ah)

No, no, no, no, no Don't you wanna go? Don't you wanna go? (Ah, ah, ah, ah)

Feels good, oh, yes
Please, please
So good, so good, my baby
