

I'll Hear Your Voice

Rockapella

And now that we've reached the end, I think of all that's passed of how the time that went so fast and of how I've come to depend upon the faith I feel inside your guiding hands

Say you'll go with me forever, though I know that you can't Well I ain't much with words There's nothin' I could say that you ain't heard But I promise you that each and every day

I'll hear your voice
In every thought that flows through my mind
I'll see your face
In every cloud that floats through my sky
And when the world is too much and the hurt's got me down on my knees to pray
I'll hear your voice
and you won't be so far away

Do you remember a moonless night?
With only sound for a view, funny what an ocean can do Say you'll go with me wherever, even though I know it's just a dream
Though I know it's unknown, It's something that I gotta do alone But I swear to you I could never do anything without your soul inside

I'll hear your voice
In every thought that flows through my mind
I'll see your face
In every cloud that floats through my sky

Someday I'll hold you, and we will be sailin' and I will never have to say goodbye again Til then, til that day I'll hear you In every thought that flows through my mind
I'll see your face
In every cloud that floats through my sky
And when the world is too much
and the hurt's got me down on my knees to pray
I'll hear your voice
and you won't be so far away
