The Golden Ghost

Rolo Tomassi

I never fail to let myself fall I know who'll stay, I know what will fade. Independence isn't something to prove, Movements so irresponsible and spineless

Feeding from brittle bodies, laced with diluted excuses. Leaving a trail of infatuation, allured by unsteadiness and a sense of protection, ignoring but not forgetting this inf estation.