Back Together Again

Ron Pope

So if we're keeping score, how much does this count?
And if I can't afford, is there a discount?
Let's skip the darkest clouds, land on the bright side
Like when the morning came, and you opened your eyes

And I'd fix breakfast as you laid in bed
Sometimes I made you scream but most you'd laugh
Since we decided this will never end
We're always falling apart then back together again

This is a witch's brew, yeah it's a pipe dream
You learned from sunny days, I learned from TV
It's hard enough to fly, up in the angry sky

So quit your howling like the northern wind
Sometimes it's easier to break than bend
This is for real, it's never been pretend
We're always falling apart then back together again

I love the way that you can make me cry
I never cared enough before to try
Yeah it ain't perfect but what else has been
We're always falling apart then back together again
Always falling apart then back together again
