

Home Again

Ron Pope

A smile that lingers on a Sunday morning,
And I can't quite find the words.
Lean in to kiss you, and I give no warning,
As we both forget the world.

I'll be there when your days are long,
Hold you up if you don't feel strong,
Light your way when the dark comes in,
And when you're lost, I'll lead you home again.
When you're lost, I'll lead you home again.

Look out the window and the day's upon us,
Now we don't know where to go.
I'm not sentimental, but I try to be honest.
There's a few things you should know...

I'll be there when your days are long,
Hold you up if you don't feel strong,
Light your way when the dark comes in,
And when you're lost, I'll lead you home again.
When you're lost, I'll lead you home again.

I'll be there when your days are long,
Hold you up if you don't feel strong,
Light your way when the dark comes in,
And when you're lost, I'll lead you home again.
When you're lost, I'll lead you home again.