

So Right

Ron Pope

We don't talk about the weather
But I'm sure she'll feel much better once
A colder season comes

And I mean this as a compliment
My baby is a lot of things
I had never ever dreamed I would want

And I said she's so, aw she's so right for Someone who don't know, what you living life for

It's like when I wrap my hands around her waist
And I'm caught up in her pretty face
She's standing up on tip-toe just to kiss me in the sun

I said, baby when I sleep at night
I dream your pillow's next to mine,
'Cus every day when you're away, I'm missing you I've got to say

She's so, aw she's so right for
Someone who don't know, what you living life for

And I know, when she goes
The wind don't smell as sweet without her
When she goes, when she goes
I can barely breathe without her

She's so, aw she's so right for
Someone who don't know, what you living life for (What you live, what you live)
(Aww come on now, show them pub!)
