

Mountains

Rosa Linn

Grey towers kiss the night
There's a neon forest beneath the skyline
I watched the world collide
Every face a shadow that I just walk by

Something in the atmosphere
Amplifying all my fears
I need something more sincere
Doesn't feel like paradise

Take me somewhere greener than these empty streets
Where the mountains grow
I need something deeper in the air I breathe
Where it feels like home

Stop hiding in these walls
Been crying waterfalls
Take me somewhere higher than I've ever been
Where the mountains grow

Lost kids out on the street
Not a single flower can grow from concrete
This city has no soul
Let me take you somewhere that only God knows

Something in the atmosphere
Amplifying all my fears
I need something more sincere
Doesn't feel like paradise

Take me somewhere greener than these empty streets
Where the mountains grow
I need something deeper in the air I breathe
Where it feels like home

Stop hiding in these walls
Been crying waterfalls
Take me somewhere higher than I've ever been
Where the mountains grow
Ooh, where the mountains grow

Take me somewhere greener than these empty streets
Where the mountains grow
I need something deeper in the air I breathe
Where it feels like home

Stop hiding in these walls
Been crying waterfalls
Take me somewhere higher than I've ever been
Where the mountains grow
Where the mountains grow
