

I Only Saw Him Once

Rosemary Clooney

I only saw him once as he came passing by
But I know that I will love him 'til the day I die

I don't know where he comes from
And I blush with shame
For I must confess
That I don't even know his name

There was something in his smile
When he looked at me, and then
There was something in my heart
That knew he'd come my way again

I only saw him once as he came passing by
But I know that I will love him 'til the day I die

I only saw him once as he came passing by
But I know that I will love him 'til the day I die!

I don't know where he comes from
No one knows his name
But I must confess
That he has set my heart aflame!

There was something in his smile
When he looked at me, and then
There was something in my heart
That knew he'd come my way again

I only saw him once as he came passing by
But I know that I will love him 'til the day I die
