

End Of The World

Roses & Revolutions

Maybe we'll wake up
And the world will be on fire
Aren't you just tired of running
And maybe when we're done
Honey, we can say we tried
We put it all aside for something

How 'bout we just sit a while
Maybe we can sit in silence
Let our looks flush out the sirens
I've never felt something so certain my entire life
So let's sit a while
Pour another glass or two
No one to answer to
This might be the end of the

Maybe we'll wake up
And the world will be on fire
Aren't you just tired of running?
And maybe when we're done
Honey, we can say we tried
We put it all aside for something

Well I don't mind taking a walk
We can visit all our places
And erase all of our traces
Let's make it look like we've never even been here before
Then we'll just watch the sun
Explode into the sky
You can be my alibi
Fuck, this might be the end of the

Maybe we'll wake up
And the world will be on fire
Aren't you just tired of running?
And maybe when we're done
Honey, we can say we tried
We put it all aside for something

When everything starts to fade
Don't forget all the sweet dream
Or worry about what it all means
'Cause this might be the end of the world

Maybe we'll wake up
And the world will be on fire
Aren't you just tired of running?
And maybe when we're done
Honey, we can say we tried
We put it all aside for something
