Rotting Out

The belt snaps and it's back to reality
Boy it's for your own good, he tries to beat her out of me
Can't help but to think how I was just a kid
Now I seek redemptions for the wrongs I never did
When the sky falls
Let it wash this guilt away
It was my fault
Was a weight I carried with me everyday

Unforgiven

I can't get out, get out
Still trying to find my way out, way out
I can't get out, get out
Still trying to find my way, my way out

Can't you see?

I'm only big so I can carry all my insecurities
Self worth is like my reflection
It's been decades since it glanced at me
So what do I do? How do I move?
Do I forgive me? Do I even have anything to prove?

Unforgiven

Still trying to find my way out, way out
I can't get out, get out
Still trying to find my way, my way out

Unforgiven

So what do I do? How do I move?
How the fuck do I forgive me?
So what do I do? How do I move?
How the fuck do I forgive myself?

Redemptions for the wrongs I never did
