

Another

Roy Drusky

There'll always be another, then another
And another just like me

You didn't lo-ove me long until the thrill was gone
Then another made me your old used to be
How long can his love last when the new lose love so fast
There'll always be another, then another
And another just like me

Just like me he'll understa-and the sorrow
Of lovin' you today and losin' you tomorrow
I'd warn him, but he'd call it jealousy
So let him be another, then another
And another just like me

You'll go anywhere for a brand new love affair
Somebody new who thrills you instantly
But when the thrill has ceased to chill
And from your past, I know it will
There'll always be another, then another
And another just like me

Just like me he'll understa-and the sorrow
Of lovin' you today and losin' you tomorrow
I'd warn him, but he'd call it jealousy
So let him be another, then another
And another just like me