

Egoist

Roy Kim

Oh baby you can name it all you want
Whatever you call it, you're just fooling yourself
No loving can be unconditional
The price gets higher as time goes by

Don't tear the walls down
Girl, don't pour your heart out
Save me all the drama
Let's simple it down, just make love, some good love yeah
Don't make me promise nada
I'm layin' it down, it's a-a-a-a-all I ask

All that arm-twisting, heart-aching, tear-dripping kinda love
You wanna start it over now
It's the eye-locking, wine-sipping, love-making kind I want
Is it too much to ask for less

Keep it cozy, keep it warm, just enough to keep a distance
Gotta know when to say when
Cuz in the end enough just will never be enough
And I don't wanna go there

I hear the whispers turning louder
And you put your foot down harder
Yeah I may be a little bit a cynic

But the heat is getting hotter
We're becoming heavy cargo
And I see it all crashing down

Don't cross the fine line
Don't give me all of your time
I'm already o-o-on o-o-overload

All that arm-twisting, heart-aching, tear-dripping kinda love
You wanna start it over now
It's the eye-locking, wine-sipping, love-making kind I want
Is it too much to ask for less

Keep it cozy, keep it warm, just enough to keep a distance
Gotta know when to say when
Cuz in the end enough just will never be enough
And I don't wanna go there

Don't tear the walls down
Don't pour your heart out
Don't want it to be o-o-o-o-over
I just want some lovin
Some indifferent lovin
Don't wanna be a-a-a-a-a-lone

All that arm-twisting, heart-aching, tear-dripping kinda love
You wanna start it over now
It's the eye-locking, wine-sipping, love-making kind I want
Is it too much to ask for less

Keep it cozy, keep it warm, just enough to keep a distance

Gotta know when to say when
Cuz in the end enough will just never be enough
And I don't wanna go there