All this room in this big house you chose the attic You running slower and slower so you froze in panic

I'm wearing a white mask, black cloak and dagger You scatter hoping for life, grabbing ropes and ladders Under this robe, I'm tatted up Automatic'd up I'm mad as fuck, I'ma kill no matter what You - live in the wrong house, at the wrong time You've - answered the call so you all mine You can't put fear in the heart of the heartless Got a list of names just don't know which one to start with At your house, staking it out, posing as carpenters Looking for closets and house guns with cartridges I'm low down and stressed I go around the rest of the house looking for Granny to throw down the steps And when it's your turn - oh you know it's tragic And the music in the background is so dramatic I'm trying to lift you off your feet - hope you know gymnastics Try to - soak the mattress with rope molasses You try to - cover your head like a prophylactic Next time somebody calling your phone, don't answer it

Hello? Hello?
