

Belly Of The Beast

Ruston Kelly

In the belly of the beast
Where the vultures wait
I will sing Hallelujah
Till they all fly away
And in the grey of the morning
I will keep walking straight

Through the hole in the wall
Where the angels hide
All the medicine I could take till I die
Resurrect me I wanna be
More than half alive
In the belly of the beast I'll try

In the heart of the dark
In the shadow days
I have called out to Michael
In a casual way
Said I was looking for manna
In everything that I ate

Like the hole through my head
Where the angels fell
From the medicine I took
To be someone else
Holy Spirit I need to feel it
More than I've ever felt
From the heart of the dark I fled

In the belly of the beast
When I'm small and afraid
I will sing Hallelujah
And burst into flames
And awaken what's worthy
And erase what I've stained

Like the holes in my life
Where the angels fly
From the broken and ugly
Ways that I've died
Resurrect me I wanna be
More than half alive
From the belly of the beast
In the heart of the dark
I'll stand on my feet and try
