

Jericho

Ruston Kelly

You can walk, walk to Bethesda
There's no house on mercy street
You might get lost in the company of angels
Ignoring the stones tied around your feet

Yeah, you got to try for something
Bend your knee and fight for something
Learn how to die for something
So you ain't living life for nothing, no

Rivers weren't made for drowning
Souls were never made to fail
I raised Jericho around me
But these walls were built to scale

I framed a fortress 'round my heart
Carved her name in the old front door
So she would know that love still stands
Here forever even when she's gone

Love can be a heat wave
Love can be a cold rain
Shadows that play on the walls of your room

Rivers weren't made for drowning
Souls were never made to fail
I raised Jericho around me
But these walls were built to scale

Yeah, you got to try for something
Bend your knee and fight for something
Learn how to die for something
So you ain't living life for nothing, no

Rivers weren't made for drowning
Souls were never made to fail
I raised Jericho around me
But these walls were built to scale
These walls were built to scale
These walls were built to scale
