Dreaming You Backwards

Ryan Adams

Once in a while
I catch myself dreaming
Dreaming you backwards
Here with me

Wandering these rooms
This house feels so empty
Got an ache in my soul
You wouldn't believe

May your arm rest easy on your pillow
May you cry every tear and forget
The long roads we took and the time we lost grieving
And may your love find it's way back home again
May your love find it's way back home again

Once in a while Fantasy thinking Pulls me back under Back in the tide

I see you smiling
When I am dreaming
The sun rises slowly
As you whisper goodbye

May your love rest easy on your pillow
May you cry every tear and forget
The long roads we took and the time we lost grieving
And may your love find it's way back home again
May your love find it's way back home again

Once in a while
I catch myself dreaming
Dreaming you backwards
Here with me
