

Letting the Light In

Ryan Adams

Maybe I just want you
Blinds are closed just half the way
Sunlight footens in the morning

With eyes that are just now opening

And you just letting the light in
You're just letting the light in
You're just letting the light in

Nobody adored you
Watch them scowl as they threw you away
And then they tried to warn you
Said I was a liar, I was a fake

I was just letting the light in
I was just letting the light in
I was just letting the light in

All the time that I waste alone
Nothing's changed, forever's broke

Maybe I just want you
Maybe you're what I need
Another night turns into morning
Interrupted by bad dreams

And you're just letting the light in
Yeah, you're just letting the light in
Yeah, you're just letting the light in