

Still a Cage

Ryan Adams

My head's spinning like a [?]
The radiator's broken and the room is so hot
But it's all I got
This life, all the things we say
We predict the weather so the future can't change
But it's still a cage
But it's still a cage
But it's still a cage

And you know who have to play it

So dumb, I watch it come true
I see the reflection before the light gets through
And it's cracked in two
If the eyes are the window to the soul
Mine's just a room with some shadows on the wall
Gonna miss this place
But it's still a cage
But it's still a cage
But it's still a cage

And you know who have to play it
And you know who have to play it

My life, everything I know
When I disappear, tell me where it's gonna go
And who are we to know
It's so dumb, I watched it as it fell
I saw it on the edge before it even went down
And I watched it break
But it's still a cage
But it's still a cage

And you know who have to play it
And you know who have to play it
And you know who have to...