

Froze

Ryan Caraveo

Take a step into my universe
Nothing but gloom and gray
The time bomb is ticking inside of me
I might go ka-boom today
There ain't no room to pray
I'm healing my wounds from June to May
I got this urge to fill up a tomb
So you should assume I may
I have kept on trying to blossom
Now my neck and eyes exhausted
You should exercise some caution
Know what's next, surprise: a coffin
Under a circle of crows
Brushing the dirt off my clothes
Blame the hurt in my soul
For leaving your eyes on permanent close

Let me freeze, now I'm froze
How could you let me go?
I see now anything goes
Because you let me go
Let me freeze, now I'm froze
How could you let me go?
I see now anything goes
Because you let me go

'Cause of you, I stay recluse
It's too late for truce
How you blame the kids instead?
Chicken head, you raised the coop
I just might go make a noose
Kick that stool like later, deuce
You want me to stay for you
You drunk off that crazy juice
Imagining how you cry
While you looking down at Ry
Would make me so proud to die
Fuck this world, I'm outie, bye
You cannot blame me for sinking
It's so hard to stay afloat
Since there's no way of surviving this
Then fine, I'll take us both

Let me freeze, now I'm froze
How could you let me go?
I see now anything goes
Because you let me go
Let me freeze, now I'm froze
How could you let me go?
I see now anything goes
Because you let me go
