

Lighthouse

Ryan Hurd

We met up at the lighthouse
While the early summer sun went down
We met up at the lighthouse
After work in a northern town
I knew I was leaving
You knew I was too
We both had our reasons
But the only one to stay was you

And even if we could go back there
Would it even be the same?
Tell me, can you still remember
Headlights in the waves?
Maybe if your whole life changes
Or maybe when I fall apart
I'll meet you at the lighthouse with whatever's left
Left of my heart

We met up at the lighthouse
Brought some beer and a joint we shared
It was cold, but we didn't care
We still kissed even though we were up in the air
And I don't know anything anymore
Anyway, I hope that you're good and I mean it
This isn't anything anymore, anyway
That doesn't mean I didn't mean it

And even if we could go back there
Would it even be the same?
Tell me, can you still remember
Headlights in the waves?
Maybe if your whole life changes
Or maybe when I fall apart
I'll meet you at the lighthouse with whatever's left
Left of my heart

Yeah

And I don't know why, but I can't help thinking
If one of us just woulda turned around
Tell me, do you think we'd end up different?
I couldn't then, but I see it now
We coulda been happy
Whoa
We coulda been happy

And if we could go back there
Would it even be the same?
Tell me, can you still remember
Headlights in the waves?
Maybe if your whole life changes
Or maybe when I fall apart
I'll meet you at the lighthouse with whatever's left
Left of my heart
Yeah
