

Halfway

Ryan O'Shaughnessy

I tried my best to stay away from what I thought I knew we would become

Now you're halfway round the world and I'm halfway to thinking you're the one

You're soul is effervescent
Your heart grows like flowers on a tree
You reached out your hand and you
Gave some of those flowers to me

But where we're going no-one knows
When we're done living in this world
If all our feelings are disposed We'll I'll just keep loving til my heart goes

We'd buy the cheapest wine, the cheapest cigarettes, at sunset we'd just talk
You helped me draw between the lines I helped you see that you were greater than you thought

But we had to say goodbye I left a painting with a poem upon the back
I said darling don't you cry just think of all of those good times that we had

Cos where we're going no-one knows
When we're done living in this world
If all our feelings are disposed of We'll I'll just keep loving Til my heart goes

Ohh...

Ohh...

I tried my best to stay away from what I thought I knew we would become

Now you're halfway round the world and I'm halfway to thinking you're the one