

Closer

Ryan Stevenson

I'm talking to someone out there listening, feeling like you've blown it
Buried underneath the shame so deep and nobody knows it
I'm talking to someone out there listening, feeling rejected Like you're too messed up and you're always stuck learning the same old lessons
Looking for purpose in all this pain, looking for sunshine behi nd the rain
There's more to the story that we haven't seen

So what if every heartbreak is not an accident?
And what if every failure is not a coincidence?
Not a moment wasted, not a tear in vein
I know my God can use anything to draw us closer

I'm talking to someone out there listening, feeling like you're wrestling
Cause you've been beat up and you can't keep up with the rules of religion
I know there's someone out there listening, you need to be remi nded
There's more to the story that we haven't seen

So what if every heartbreak is not an accident?
And what if every failure is not a coincidence?
Not a moment wasted, not a tear in vein
I know my God can use anything to draw us closer

All this time He's chasing our hearts
He never stops, never too far
All this time He's chasing our hearts
Drawing us closer to Him, closer to Him
Cause there is a purpose in all this pain
His spirit is moving in everything

So what if every heartbreak is not an accident?
And what if every failure is not a coincidence?
Not a moment wasted, not a tear in vein
I know my God can use anything to draw us closer

To draw us closer
Closer
Closer

To draw us closer
Closer
Closer than here
