

You Already Know

Ryan Stevenson

Oh Lord, you know
Every word I'm gonna say long before
My lips begin to speak
Oh Lord, you know
Anticipate my every thought long before
My mind has time to think

Your understanding of my souls' a mystery
I can't begin to comprehend a love so deep

You already know, you already know
Every step of faith I take, and everyone I don't
The details of my life
Were etched in your design
Everything that's left behind
And all the future holds
Lord, you already know

You already
You already
You already
Lord, you already know
You already
You already
You already know

Oh Lord, you saw who you created me to be long before I'd seen the light of day
Oh Lord, my heart, you read it like an open book all my days you wrote on e very page

Your understanding of my soul's a mystery
And I can't begin to comprehend a love so deep

You already know, you already know
Every step of faith I take, and everyone I don't
The details of my life
Were etched in your design
Everything that's left behind
And all the future holds
Lord, you already know

You already
You already
You already
Lord, you already know
You already
You already
You already know

I saw you holding out your hand when you found me
Without an anchor I was drifting I was drowning
Overflow my heart with love it was abounding
Gave me eyes to see I felt your presence all around me

And I saw light inside the dark, you put life inside my bones
Holy spirit in my mind now I know I'm not alone

You already know, you already know
Every step of faith I take, and everyone I don't
The details of my life
Were etched in your design
Everything that's left behind
And all the future holds
Lord, you already know

You already
You already
You already
Lord, you already know
You already
You already
You already know

You already
You already
You already
Lord, you already know
You already
You already
You already know