

This Moment

Ryland James

Don't wake me up from this moment
Don't feed me more of your lies
How am I to know where your feelings lie?

And if you wanna take me
First ask yourself why you pull me back down
With regret and denial

And the one I loved I lost
I never thought I'd be so easily forgot
And all these questions came running back down
And I never really felt that lost

And I don't know what you mean to me
Was it a mystery? I know I've lost
And it won't be forgot

I'm lost in your questions
I'm lost in your lies
I'm lost without you
I ask myself why?

And the one I loved I lost
I never thought I'd be so easily forgot
And all these questions came running back down
And I never really felt that lost

So wake me up from this moment
I'm full of your lies
A glass to find the moment
Like strangers passing by

A window closed forever
It's hard to say goodbye and in that moment
All is said

And the one I loved I lost
I never thought I'd be so easily forgot
And all these questions came running back down
And I never really felt that lost

And the one I loved I lost
I never thought I'd be so easily forgot
And all these questions came running back down
And I never really felt that lost

And the one I loved I lost
I never thought I'd be so easily forgot
And all these questions came running back down
And I never really felt that lost

And the one I loved I lost
I never thought I'd be so easily forgot
And all these questions came running back down
And I never really felt that lost
