

You Had My Heart

Saara Aalto

I, I'm falling from the high
'Cause I believed a lie
I guess I closed my eyes
No, I'll never turn around
I'd rather hit the ground
Than lose my breath and drown

To everything you said, those things, they make me weak
You said I'd fall apart like I was incomplete
But as we reach the end, it's finally clear to you
This is the moment of truth

You had my heart, beating, beating
Without a scar, then you drew me, drew me into the dark
I should have known right from the start
That you would leave my heart bleeding, bleeding
You ran so far, escaping, fading away from the dark
Look what you've done, the end has just begun

Who taught you to hurt me so
Holding secrets in your soul
Why did you not let go?
Free, that's what you want to be
Without responsibility
Destroying every piece of me

The life I thought I knew
Is gone because of you
This game is over

You had my heart, beating, beating
Without a scar, then you drew me, drew me into the dark
I should have known right from the start
That you would leave my heart bleeding, bleeding
You ran so far, escaping, fading away from the dark
Look what you've done, the end has just begun

All my life I've loved like good girls do
Now I see it's not enough for you
And all this time I thought our love divine
You had the knife, right there inside
Inside, inside, inside
My heart, my heart, my heart

You had my heart, beating, beating
Without a scar, then you drew me, drew me into the dark
I should have known right from the start
That you would leave my heart bleeding, bleeding
You ran so far, escaping, fading away from the dark
Look what you've done, the end has just begun
Begun, begun, the end has just begun