I guess it's like I'm in a show
Sitting in a flash photography forbidden row
I interrupt the stage with my light rays
So, I'm kicked out of the theatre
With different rolls of film they would try to apprehend
Before it get exposed
That's a dark room if you didn't know

No development 'cause everything disposable
I'm from the city of the point and shoot
And the cameras on the pole know bout every spot you going to Look, I could say it simple, no rigamaro
But the artist in me isn't sold
They tried to empty the clip, we had shots left up in the roll
I polaroid every word of mine, took my time with
You could be below the climate, wouldn't be polarizing
Sometimes to see inside the lens you gotta go behind it
And I'm reminded

Been a blur
Whatever events occurred
I don't remember
Too focused on the big picture
Been in search
The person in this mirror
You know what you're worth
Focus on the big picture

Yeah, and so the show continues on
Even when everyone they paid to film it gone
Even when the intermission done
And some of the seats empty now, someone was just sitting on
You speak a little louder to recite the lines
Do it right, might get foot traffic from outside
Left the whole venue with they mouth wide
They asked for more until they saw the house lights
'Cause everybody pretty in the dark
Transparency don't inherently blend in with the art
Sometimes the ugly truth can get you pretty far
You just take the negatives and make a witty bar
Turn it into paper then your image is enlarged
Gotta get the frame right, fitting in is hard
Best case scenario, they stick it to a wall
Where stuck up motherfuckers walk by and give their thoughts

Been a blur
Whatever events occurred
I don't remember
Too focused on the big picture
Been in search
The person in this mirror

You know what you're worth
