

Falling Down

SAFIA

I wouldn't call this pain
But really I'm not certain
I wouldn't call this rain
Though it's dark and there's frost
I know it's not in vein
If I put everything to virtue
But self sacrifice can hurt you
Leave you cold and feeling lost

And when reflections fade
Tell me why should I keep caring
I know it's just a phase
Though I'm scared it will last
I think of brighter days
'Cause I'm pretty good at hoping
And leaving my heart open
For some kind of fairy tale to start

But I'm just so good at falling down
This isn't worth it, no it ain't worth it
I'm just so good at burning out
And falling down, falling down

There is a state of mind
And a world that I could float through
Move with a changing tide
Letting everything in
But it's a game of time
Where the house always wins
But still I feel it, this fire
(This hope, this desire)
Desire
(I know I'm a dreamer, I know I'm a dreamer)

I'm just so good at falling down
I hope it's worth it, please make it worth it
I'm just so good at burning out
And falling down

I'm just so good at falling down
I hope it's worth it, please make it worth it
I'm just so good at burning out
And falling down, falling down

Why do I tear myself apart
When all you need is right here where you are
It all seems simple yet so hard
I guess I want that feeling to just last

I guess I want that feeling to just last
I guess I want that feeling to just last
I guess I want that feeling to just last
