

The perverse possibilities of the Barbican
You could be invisible here
You can get a notion of floating across the city

I feel a nostalgia
For an age yet to come