

Hurricanes

Saint Saviour

There's a place where only rain follows you round
Theres a world where only shame, follows you down
There's a wind that blows you further, further in doubt

And the ghosts of all the people who are lost in hurricanes
That breaks me down
And all the souls who didn't get across, the hurricanes
That breaks me down

Sometimes when the seas are rough, you'll cry to the night
Sometimes you're just not enough, but it's not worth the fight
Don't get caught up being special, cos you're doing all right

And the ghosts of all the people who are lost in hurricanes
That breaks me down
And all the souls who didn't get across, the hurricanes
That breaks me down

That breaks me down
Cos I'm on the other side of town
I'm saying I'm lonely
Deep in my soul
Won't somebody throw me something to hold
The end of my tether
Been pulling a load
Down with the weather
Left in the cold
And I'm getting old

There's a place I save for me, when I want to hide
There's a place no one can see, in the dark of my mind
There's a place I hear your voice, you say I'm doing alright

But the ghosts of all the people who are lost in hurricanes
That breaks me down
And all the souls who didn't get across, the hurricanes
That breaks me down
