

Open the World

Sam Phillips

Hiding in mirrors, invisible stage
My life went on without me
'Til pain brought the house down

Now that it's broken let's open the world
Outside a corner's falling into life-away

Every time you look at me you're in disguise
Too many endings and the pain
Has drawn a stranger in your eyes

Now that it's broken let's open the world
The sky inside is bigger for our hearts to hold
Upside down and beyond repair
The light is coming through

You caught me wanting and the shame in my eyes
So inductive that it made the time still
Pulling down my need

Put something in my drink that made me want to say yes
Fishnets and tassels and my dance was the only way I could confess
