

Deep Blue Doubt

Sam Ryder

Everyone's trying to find somebody
And I have been driving myself crazy
'Cause don't you know love has been making a fool out of me lately
Don't you know love has been making a fool of me, yeah

She said: You look at your life like it's a problem to be fixed
You're so up in your damn mind that you can't step away from it
But, before you know it, what you love can break your spirit
And for every master plan, there's a fool who's a slave to it

Everybody's got a fire and now mine is burning out
Can you lend a little light? Can you read my mouth?
I've been swimming in an ocean full of deep blue doubt
I've been swimming in an ocean, swimming in an ocean
And I'm trying to find an angel, but they're tricky to attract
Been trying to keep a level head and not overreact
I've been swimming in an ocean and trying to make it back
Swimming in an ocean and trying to make it back to you

She said: There's a fine line between living and regret
All this racing against time when you could be in the moment
Because a little bit of hope is all you'll ever need
To turn it back around and make yourself believe
And for every master plan, there's a fool like me, there's a fool like me

Everybody's got a fire and now mine is burning out
Can you lend a little light? Can you read my mouth?
I've been swimming in an ocean full of deep blue doubt
I've been swimming in an ocean, swimming in an ocean
And I'm trying to find an angel, but they're tricky to attract
Been trying to keep a level head and not overreact
I've been swimming in an ocean and trying to make it back
Swimming in an ocean and trying to make it back
To you
To you
To you
Swimming in an ocean and trying to make it back to you

Come on then, love, make a fool out of me
Come on then, love, make a fool out of me
Come on then, love, make a fool out of me
Come on then, love, make a fool out of me

Come on then, love, make a fool out of me
Come on then, love, make a fool out of me
Come on then, love, make a fool out of me
Come on then, love, make a fool out of me

Everybody's got a fire and now mine is burning out
Can you lend a little light? Can you read my mouth?
I've been swimming in an ocean full of deep blue doubt
I've been swimming in an ocean, swimming in an ocean
And I'm trying to find an angel, but they're tricky to attract
Been trying to keep a level head and not overreact
I've been swimming in an ocean and trying to make it back
Swimming in an ocean and trying to make it back to you